Telecom Contract Terms and Cancellation Policy.

Contract length. Mobile plans are month-to-month unless a subsidised handset is included, in which case the minimum term is 24 months. Home internet plans are offered on a 12-month or 24-month commitment; the 24-month commitment reduces the monthly price by 5 euros.

Notice period. To cancel, give 30 days notice through the Telecom app, in writing, or by calling support. The service remains active, and billable, until the notice period ends. Cancellation takes effect at the end of the billing cycle in which the notice period expires.

Early termination. Cancelling a committed contract before its term ends incurs an early termination fee equal to the remaining monthly payments, capped at 6 months of service. A subsidised handset must additionally be paid off in full. There is no early termination fee if the customer is moving to an address where Telecom cannot provide service; proof of address is required.

Cooling-off period. A new contract can be cancelled without penalty within 14 days of activation. Equipment must be returned undamaged within 14 days of cancellation, or it is charged at its full retail price.

Price changes. Telecom may change prices with 30 days notice. If a price increase exceeds the rate of inflation, the customer may terminate the contract without an early termination fee within 30 days of the notice.

Equipment return. Routers and set-top boxes remain the property of Telecom and must be returned within 14 days of cancellation. Return is free using a prepaid label available in the app. An unreturned router is charged at 120 euros and an unreturned set-top box at 80 euros.
